

Alewine, Mauldin named outstanding teachers

By MARY ANN SABO
News Editor

Dr. Louis Mauldin and Dr. Jim Alewine have been selected as Outstanding Teachers of the Year.

A project of the UT National Alumni Association, the 1983 recipients will each receive a $1,000 stipend which is funded by gifts to UT from alumni and other patrons of the university.

A project of the UT National Alumni Association, the awards are designed to honor excellence in faculty instruction.

The selection process begins in early winter. According to Nick Dunagan, vice chancellor for development, ballots are sent out to alumni of the past three years, to the class that graduated 15 years ago and to a selected sample of students enrolled in winter quarter.

"The deadline for nominations was March 15," he explained. "From there, the ballots go to a selection committee made up of former recipients of the outstanding teachers award."

Barbara Jones, associate professor of fine and performing arts is chairman of the committee this year.

To be considered for outstanding teacher, a nominee must be mentioned by at least one student, one alumni and two faculty members. Those who meet the criteria have a letter sent to them asking if they want to participate in the process further.

Dunagan said that the next step in the process was for the committee to conduct evaluations in the nominees classrooms.

"The results are tabulated and those who receive the top two numerical ratings are awarded the Outstanding Teacher of the Year award."

Mauldin, professor of philosophy who has been with UTM since 1972, said that he "appreciates the confidence expressed by the alumni, the students and the faculty."

"My basic philosophy of teaching is to teach out of my own existential problems. Those things in my life which are problems become the basis in my search for knowledge and for my teaching."

Alewine, associate professor of sociology and director of the criminal justice program who has been with the university for 21 years, said that he was flattered by the selection.

"Actually, I am rather relieved to have been selected because I have been nominated a number of times. It is an honor indeed."

Library extends hours

By PATSY BOWEN
Assoc. News Editor

SGA and the Paul Meek Library began an experimental program winter quarter of this year which consisted of extending the library hours during the week of final exams.

According to Reggie Williams, newly-elected SGA president, the program proved productive enough to try again this quarter.

"According to a head count taken during the extra hours, from 300-400 people took advantage of the extension," Williams explained.

Williams went on to say that the program had been started upon request by the students and he felt that the response had been enough to deem the program worthwhile to both students and personnel.

The student leader also stressed that if students failed to continue to utilize the extra library hours, it then would be discontinued because it would not be advantageous to keep the library open the extra hours if only a few people took advantage of the opportunity.

"Some people are too busy to study during the day and others are too busy to study at night," Williams conclude. "This way we can help all the student."

The extended hours for the library for finals week of spring quarter are:

Wednesday, June 1—7:50 a.m. to 12 midnight
Thursday, June 2—7:50 a.m. to 12 midnight
Friday, June 3—7:50 a.m. to 12 midnight
Saturday, June 4—7:50 a.m. to 10 p.m.
Sunday, June 5—7:50 a.m. to 12 midnight
Monday, June 6—7:50 a.m. to 12 midnight
Tuesday, June 7—7:50 a.m. to 10 p.m.

International Week offers samples of other lifestyles

By NEIL HEADDEN
Student Writer

How would you like to sample delicious food from foreign countries, become more knowledgeable about international customs, and share in exciting cultures? If your curiosity is aroused, get into the last days of International Week, May 22 through 28.

According to Charles Gillon, academic coordinator and assistant director of international programs, the theme of International Week is, "To promote International Brotherhood."

International Week was designed for foreign students to exchange beliefs, cultures and customs with American students. This year makes the ninth year this program has been operating. Gillon stated that during the first years of the program there was only a banquet, but since then the program has grown to a week full of events.

International Week was opened by a play entitled, Mother's Day, directed by Sam Anderson. It was performed Sunday by aspiring, foreign drama students.

Monday hosted the International Cafe, featuring snack foods and desserts from other countries. The foreign students made these foods voluntarily.

A UTM badminton tournament also began Monday night with semi-finals and finals being played Tuesday night. Tonight a martial arts demonstration will be given at the University Center ballroom. The arts of Judo, Karate, Tae Kwon Do, Fu and Tai Chi will all be demonstrated.

The highlight of the week is the International Banquet to be held tomorrow night. A full course buffet style dinner of fine foreign foods will be served. Along with the dinner will be several types of international entertainment.

Luis Peressol, a renowned painter from Caracas, Venezuela, will be exhibiting 15-20 of his original paintings Friday night before the international banquet. The exhibit will be set up in the lounge area outside the ballroom of the University Center at 5 p.m. and will be open during the banquet for anyone interested.

Peressol characterizes his work as impressionistic; he uses no brushes, but instead works with a palette knife. He does both landscapes and typical "street" scenes.

Saturday, a soccer game between UTM and the Paducah Soccer Club will bring International Week to a close.

At the end of the ninth annual International Week, it is hoped that International Programs has allowed UTM to sample other lifestyles without having to leave the country or even alter already established lifestyles.

Smith elected jobs chairman

UTM Chancellor Dr. Charles E. Smith was elected chairman of the proposed 20-member board of directors of the West Tennessee Jobs Conference Steering Committee. Smith's nomination by Carroll County Chamber of Commerce Director Jess Pinkley of Hurlingham was seconded by Henry County Executive Jim Farmer.

Recognizing a need to insure the continued broad base input and regional support for the regional initiatives, the steering committee established four action committees which correspond to the four Jobs Conference task forces—agriculture, economic and community development, education, and transportation—and also created a new committee on tourism.

The WTJC executive committee will be composed of the chairman, vice chairman, secretary-treasurer, and two at-large members of the board of directors.

Smith said that he will initiate immediately letters to county executives, mayors, and chamber of commerce directors to solicit nominees to serve on the board and the various committees.

"I am honored to have been elected Jobs Conference chairman, and I look forward to working with the board of directors and with West Tennesseans to insure the continued growth and development of the region," said Smith.

Smith praised the efforts of Madison County Executive Dr. Alex Leech, who served as chairman of the temporary Jobs Conference Steering Committee and who presided over the April 18 meeting in Jackson.

"Dr. Leech has provided truly outstanding leadership as chairman of the conference steering committee," Smith said. "The April 18 conference day was a tremendous success, and Dr. Leech is due primary credit for his efforts to insure a successful conference and the participation of more than 500 West Tennesseans."

The 12 goals adopted April 18 by Jobs Conference delegates are:

Work toward passage of the Better Schools Program.

Improve involvement, interrelationship, and communications between public and private education and industry.

Enhance public knowledge of and support for education.

Develop a united West Tennessee economic and community development recruitment effort.

Complete inventory of West Tennessee assets, advantages, and resources that would attract industry, develop tourism, and develop service industries.

Develop a unified coordinated advertising effort with the State.

Continue maintenance and upgrading of the existing road system as well as consideration of all items from the transportation task force.

Construct a connector road from I-55 to I-40.

Continue the development of the U.S. 64 corridor from Shelby County east to the Tennessee River.

Encourage diversification of farming operations by placing emphasis on recruiting agri-related industries.

Have State Government give full support to programs to control soil erosion and reduce flooding.

Give increased emphasis to the development of markets for Tennessee farm products.

"The West Tennessee Jobs Conference is one of the most meaningful efforts which has been developed to deal with region-wide problems and opportunities," Smith said. "Last month, more than 500 West Tennesseans came together in Jackson in a display of democracy at its very best to consider their collective futures and to address common problems."

Thanks, Dr. Simmons

In February, Dr. Milton Simmons announced his resignation effective at the end of August. He decided to resign because of health concerns and a desire to return to teaching.

We want to express our thanks to him for taking what is one of THE most important jobs at any university.

As vice chancellor for academic affairs, Dr. Simmons has gotten things done.

Under his leadership, the academic administrative structure has been significantly reformed, the quality of UTM's academic programs has been improved and academic personnel's salaries have been increased.

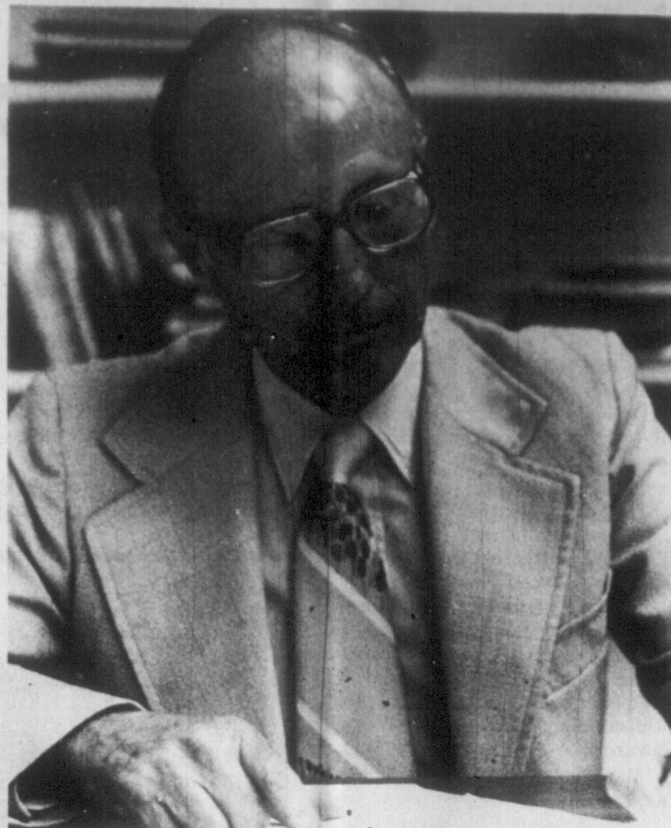

During his four years as vice chancellor of academic affairs, Dr. Simmons has helped UTM move forward. This year the Tennessee Higher Education Commission ranked UTM second only to UTK in a study done on Tennessee universities, and ACT placed UTM third out of 59 colleges and universities in a study conducted on educational enhancement (COMP).

UTM is becoming one of the quality undergraduate centers in the state, and Dr. Simmons has been a part of that growth.

He has shown that he cares about UTM's academic environment through his involvement with the University Scholars program, the Academic Speakers program and the UTM Arts Council. He has instituted faculty evaluation to make sure UTM instructors are good teachers - teachers that care about students and their work.

His four years as vice chancellor of academic affairs have not been easy ones. They were four of this university's toughest fiscal years. Just like any other top administrator, Dr. Simmons has received a fair amount of criticism. We are not saying that he has made no mistakes, but we are saying that he deserves commendation for his service to this campus.

We wish him the best as he returns to full-time teaching fall quarter and thank him for a job well done.

Dr. Milton Simmons

Hang in there, Guv

Guest Column

Now that the 1983 General Assembly session is history, all of us affected by its decisions, either positively or negatively, should perhaps pause to reflect upon the results of its work.

A quick tally of the legislation passed will indicate that as usual the liquor industry and banks fared very well. Young people had mixed success. Those who play video games will likely see an increase in charges to offset the tax imposed on the machines, on the other hand, the nineteen and twenty-year-old consumers of alcoholic beverages have had their "brew" rights protected. (So, according to some, they can die quicker.)

Certainly, the average taxpayer in Tennessee can breathe a sigh of relief that no major tax increases are forthcoming. The real losers seem to be state employees and public educators who got only a provisional promise of a small salary raise from the state legislature, as it grasped its last few breaths of power.

There were other winners and losers. Those of us who live in areas without liquor stores and who once-in-a-while choose to imbibe in a little wine but financially must settle for the cheaper grade can no longer stop by the grocery on the way home to purchase a little "Lite Wine" sparkle to add to our weekend meals. But then, the "Golden Goose" knows what's best for all of us little ducklings.

The real championship battle between "good" and "evil" this year in the legislature was the fight over the Master Teacher Plan. (Personally, I'm still trying to figure out who the good guys were in that struggle.) Certainly Governor Alexander charged forth dauntlessly against the whole of mediocrity. (Caution, do not confuse with "meritocracy.") Countering this "power-thirsty Don Quixote" were the noble warriors-our public school teachers, egged on by that mischievous wizard, Merlin (professionally referred to as the Tennessee Education Association, sometimes referred to as "the teacher lobby," but always referred to by Governor Alexander as "the teacher union"), lurking, often not too quietly, in the shadows of the Legislative Plaza. Whether for better or worse, the Governor's will did not prevail; but like a gallant knight, he has sworn to do battle on the field of honor once more come next year.

Looking at the education struggle from a personal perspective I guess I should have good cause for disappointment. As an educator, I surely must be for educational improvement; as a father with a child in the public school system, I surely must want her to benefit from those improvements; and as one who would have probably benefited financially from the new educational appropriations, I most surely must have wanted to see his plan succeed. Yet, I find myself not overly distraught, certainly not as much as the Governor seems to be. (I hope Honey has hidden his sleeping pills and prowler repeller.)

I guess I am a little surprised at the Governor's dismay over his failure. In a state where special interests have all too frequently prevailed over the greater good for the general populace, I do not understand why one interest element has been targeted by Governor Alexander for such ire. Surely some of it might be spared for other groups who put self-interest first. I imagine his noble leader in Washington, who apparently appears headed toward a disastrous defeat at the hands of that dastardly "banking lobby," would be glad for him to expand his forum to include these "greedy money changers," who have perverted his withholding tax reform effort.

Oh well, the Governor will have to settle for his "superfund" for now, and I will have to be satisfied with generic lite beer with my Friday nite grilled hamburger. But hang in there Guv, our day may come yet.

Don't forget the International Banquet

There's only three more days of classes left and everyone is beginning to cram for exams. Summer is almost here and it's time for those sad farewells to friends.

Come enjoy some international cooking at the International Banquet. It's just one of the few events of "It's a Small World," the theme of International Week. The banquet will begin at 6:30 p.m. Saturday in the Ballroom. Food and entertainment from the variety of nations represented at UTM will be included. A martial arts demonstration will also be held in the Ballroom on Thursday, May 26, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Do you enjoy a good laugh? Then, bring a friend and come see "Chéech and Chong's Next Movie" in the Ballroom Sunday at 6 p.m. and 9 p.m. Admission will be $1.

Congratulations to the 1983-84 Congress. We're proud to have such a good group and I'm sure they will represent the students well.

Once again the library will have extended hours during exam week. These extra hours have proved a great success and a great help to students in the past. Check the Pacer for more details.

Congratulations to the new pom-pom squad. Your performances at the basketball games were enjoyed by all this past year as I'm sure that tradition will be upheld.

Have a great summer and we'll see you next year!

Business trip appreciated

Dear editor,

On April 17, 1983, fourteen students and Dr. Figgins went on a voyage, that I will always remember. It was a trip that was not only beneficial to my education but was also a lot of fun. We were fortunate enough to go to the 8th Student Conference on International Business that was held in conjunction with the 46th Chicago World Trade Conference.

The conference proved to be very informative and interesting. The theme of the conference was "Overcoming Trade Barriers is Everybody's Business." The topics discussed and the speakers were magnificent. Included in the schedule of events that lasted two days, were experts both domestic and foreign, that lectured on the most current and important topics affecting us today. Attending the conference were many outstanding leaders such as Grover Dubose, the vice-president of Sears World Trade Inc. and Andrew Young, the mayor of Atlanta. There was also a surprise visit from Chicago's Mayor Washington.

Of all the workshops and lectures, the one that I liked the most was the session on the jobs in international business. It was a question and answer session with four distinguished authorities. They gave us information such as the variety of fields available for international business students, what employees are looking for and how to find the companies themselves. They gave us valuable information that I'm sure will help me when I graduate.

The students participating in this excursion are Dean Graber, Will Cagle, Judy Green, Tommy Hyde, Douglas Thompson, Brad Matlock, Burnie Norman, Morris English, Chris Fleming, Tim Beatty, Willie Walker, Vicki Robinson, Nancy Churchill, and myself. It was really a great group, we got along real well.

I am really glad that I went on the trip. I learned a lot and had an excellent time. Dr. Figgins was very nice and helpful. I would like to thank him, Dean Shaffer, and UTM for making it possible for students to broaden their horizons in many different ways.

Sincerely,

Vilma Robaina

'Bye 'bye and thanks!

In May of 1981 I was chosen to become editor of The Pacer, and at that time I was enthusiastic, excited, hopeful, and proud about the future as I was very anxious to make The Pacer a student newspaper that was attractive, entertaining and most importantly, informative and accurate.

Well, with this issue, my term of service ends, and in reflection I must say that in the past two years, The Pacer has not always been as attractive, as entertaining, as informative or as accurate as it might have been. For this I apologize, but despite its faults and oversights, when it comes to The Pacer, I am still enthusiastic, still excited and still proud and hopeful about its future.

Thanks, UTM, for helping me grow. Thanks, Daddy and Mother, for always reading so faithfully, and thanks, especially, to The Print Shop and The Pacer staff for being such a great group of people and friends.

I'll miss you, UTM, and Pacer staff. I'll miss you with all my heart. May God bless you in 1983-84 as he so generously blessed me this year.

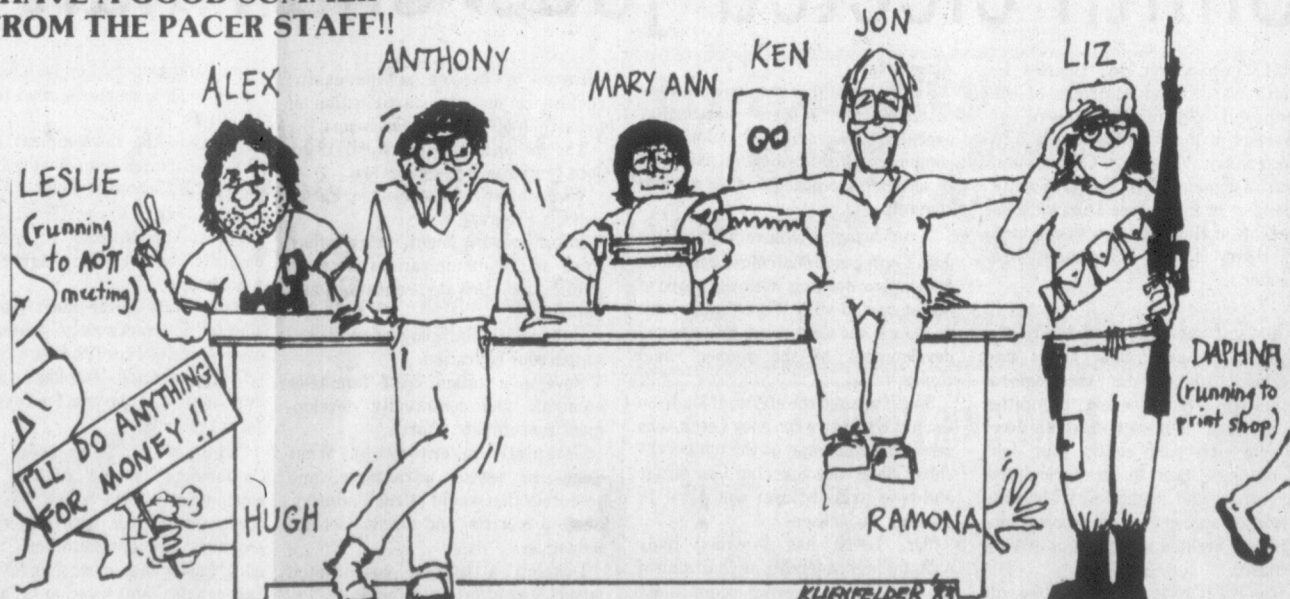

Sincerely,
Ramona Sanders

Rowlett's 15 years supervision paid off

By JON IVINS
Features Editor

Mrs. Lillian Rowlett, who assumed the responsibilities of the UTM Senior Postal Clerk in the University Center's post office, recently retired after 15 years of service.

The responsibilities Mrs. Rowlett had were many, but her greatest accomplishment in the 15 years she worked in the post office was to train about 70 students in the arts of postal work.

"I enjoyed working with students. To do the work involved, you have to be able to enjoy young people," Mrs. Rowlett said.

"We all worked in one room and had to build a good relationship. I learned to understand the students and their needs and the students were always real cooperative," she continued.

The responsibilities of the senior postal clerk, known affectionately by the university as the "Post master," included buying stamps, being responsible for all the money going in and out of the office, inventory each week, and various other things most people do not realize that goes on behind the letter drop.

The duties generally fell under the categories of postal, clerical and delivery in accordance with Federal postal regulations.

For instance, Mrs. Rowlett would buy $600 to $1,000 worth of stamps per week and she was responsible for all the incoming and outgoing mail to the university.

"Students write and receive more letters than the average adult does, and we handled the job very well as long as I was employed in the post office," said Mrs. Rowlett.

"I have enjoyed working at UTM—it's a very nice place to work. I mainly wanted to retire so I could do the things I want to do while there is time left to do them."

Mrs. Rowlett said that she has grown to love the 70 students she has trained to work in the post office. "They seem like my own children."

Mrs. Rowlett explained that in handling the mail, they had to be especially careful about incoming checks for students to make sure the right person got them.

Also, the post office would send a list of names of the people who have packages at the post office to the dorms. The dorm was then responsible for delivering the messages to the students there.

Mail pick-up was always at 4. At 3:45 the post office employees would gather all the mail into bags in time for the main pick-up. Anything mailed after 4 did not go out until the next day, even though the post office is open until 5.

The students who worked for Mrs. Rowlett were either work-studies or simply applied for the job. She would supervise 5 to 7 students each year according to their schedules. The students worked between classes.

Mrs. Rowlett said, "We had to do things the postal service's way and try to please the university at the same time. So it was like having two bosses—sort of rough sometimes."

The post office has moved from where it was when Mrs. Rowlett first worked. The past post office was located in the area between the pay telephones of the University Center where the bulletin boards are. When the University Center added its wings, the post office was moved around the corner to its present location. Mrs. Rowlett said the room is much larger than the old post office was.

Since the post office does not run at the university during Christmas break, the problems regular post offices experience during the Christmas card rush is not felt here. But there are nearly as many Mother's Day and Valentine's Day cards processed through the post office to make up for the rush at Christmas.

Mrs. Rowlett enjoys her retirement and is glad she no longer has the vast responsibilities of the senior postal clerk anymore. The management of the University Center is supposed to select a new postal clerk to replace Mrs. Rowlett, but it should be difficult to replace Mrs. Rowlett's personality in the post office.

If you ask any student postal worker at the post office, he will probably tell you that Mrs. Rowlett was the post office and that she is missed.

Mrs. Rowlett reflects that the campus has grown tremendously since she started to work with the post office. The campus has gained three dorms, a swimming pool and several other buildings.

"The school outgrew the small post office between the telephones and near the bulletin boards," said Mrs. Rowlett.

It is obvious that the post office employees and the university will have a tough act to follow in replacing the love and reliability Mrs. Rowlett showed. She has gotten every letter, package and card to its addressee in her efficient postal system, and she has trained 70 other postal workers in the tricks of her trade.

Without Mrs. Rowlett's supervision over the last 15 years, the post office would not be as smoothly run as it is today and fewer students would have received their care packages from home as quickly as they now do.

"Post Master"

Lillian Rowlett worked for the last 15 years in the University post office serving as the senior postal clerk, or "Post master." To her postal trainees, Mrs. Rowlett was both mother and supervisor, and now that she has retired to "do the things she wants to do while there is time to do them," she is sorely missed.

'The Marriage of Figaro' displays talents

By LYNN JARRETT
Student Writer

The Department of Fine and Performing Arts presented, in the Harriet Fulton Performing Arts Theatre, the intriguing comic opera, The Marriage of Figaro, this past Friday and Saturday night. This amusing production, scored by Mozart, was first performed in Vienna on the first day of May 1786. By the standards of the time the opera was scandalous.

The libretto by Lorenzo da Ponte was based on "Le Marriage de Figaro" a play by the Frenchman Beaumarchais, which was considered immoral and radical at the time. The suggestion that a barber-valet, Figaro, could outwit a count was appalling to the elite of 18th century Vienna. The play was banned in that city.

The plot revolves around the count's futile attempts to secure a rendezvous of love with his wife's hand-servant, Susanna. Susanna is to wed Figaro but the count attempts to invoke the old feudal custom allowing him to spend the wedding night with his male servant's bride. Efforts by Figaro, Susanna and the countess succeed in frustrating the count, as well as his designs. A variety of subplots and intrigues weave thru the four acts sustaining the audience's attention. It is a lengthy opera, but ultimately the music and humor prevail.

The male leads, the count Almaviva and Figaro, were adeptly performed by Ronnie Green and Stan Farr. Both men were expressive and tempered in the roles providing fine baritone performances. The female casting was also sound. Rita Winter as the countess Almaviva exhibited a beautiful soprano and adept acting in her role. Susanna as played by Janet Dunaway was charming and another fine soprano. The exchange between Marcellina, played by Sara Head, and Susanna in the opening act, on Saturday, was impressive and established the night. The antics of the young page, Cherubino, were endearingly played by Leigh Holman who gave a superb performance. The opera boasted a large cast, thirteen total, and all made excellent contributions to the evenings show. Complementing the vocal displays, with impeccable musicianship, was Ms. Yukiko Nakane who delighted the audience with her alternately playing the piano and the harpsichord.

The cast of this fine performance should be credited with saving a dreary weekend in this unusually wet spring. Fine displays of vocal talent and effective casting combined with the-keyboard virtuosity of Ms. Nakane to provide a very enjoyable evening.

Bedding plants to be sold

By PATSY BOWEN
Associate News Editor

Mr. Guy Robbins, director of grounds, has announced that the UTM greenhouse will be offering surplus bedding plants for sale to students all next week, May 30 through June 3 during the hours of 8 a.m.-4 p.m.

These plants are extras from the campus spring planting and include hibiscus, Joseph's coat, and geraniums along with many tropical type varieties.

Many of the plant's come from seed donated by seed companies for testing purposes and include varieties usually not available through nurseries and plant shops and come at reduced prices.

The plants may be purchased at the Grounds greenhouse located north of Pacer Stadium.

Arts Council announces upcoming year

Performances by the Goffrey Ballet Concert Group, the Nashville Symphony Baroque Ensemble, and the Chattanooga Boys Choir will highlight the 1983-84 UTM's Arts Council's season, it was announced today.

Dr. Allison Nelson, associate professor of fine and performing arts and UTM artist-in-residence, said the Arts Council is currently conducting its annual membership and fund-raising drive for 1983-84.

"The UTM Arts Council was formed in 1981 to promote and support arts on the UTM campus as well as in the community," Nelson said. "The Council is composed of interested individuals from the UTM faculty and staff, the local community, and from UTM's service region."

Memberships for the 1983-84 series are $17.50 for adults and $7.50 for children and students. Persons interested in contributing to the Council may choose one of four levels of giving. "Benefactors" contribute $250 or more each year. "Patrons" give $100 to $249 annually, while "Sponsors" donate $25 to $99 each year. "Donors" contribute $25 or less. All contributors' names are printed on the program of all Arts Council-sponsored events.

Checks for memberships and contributions should be made payable to the "UT Martin Arts Council" and mailed to UTM Arts Council, Room 211 Fine Arts Building, UTM, Martin, Tenn. 38238. A self-addressed, stamped envelope should be enclosed with check or money order. Additional information is available by calling (901) 587-7400.

Alpha Phi Alpha holds festivities

The brothers of Alpha Phi Alpha, Mu Beta Chapter, dedicated Alpha Week, April 24-30, to the memory of Cordell Calcote.

The week began on Saturday and highlights included a Greek mixer, participation in the March of Dimes "Walk America," and a roller disco.

Tuesday was the Alpha Award Program where outstanding students and athletes were honored. Marshall Banks and Rose Kent received $100 award for the highest black freshman GPA while Crystal Evans, senior at Martin Westview, also received $100 from the Alpha Phi Alpha Cordell Calcote Scholarship Fund. Jerry Reese and Angela Reaves were honored as the black athletes with the highest GPA. They received plaques acknowledging their merits.

Wednesday saw Garfield Perry named "Mr. Universe" in the Body Building Contest. Thursday, Marcellus Martin and James Trice received a $15 prize in a "Name That Tune," game show.

The week wound up with the "Black and Gold Ball" where Eddie Gray received the Brother of the Year Award Friday night along with the Parents Day Reception and cookout on Saturday.

SCUBA classes to be held

UTM in conjunction with the Young Men's Christian Association, (YMCA) will conduct a Self Contained Underwater Breathing Apparatus (SCUBA) instructor course beginning Friday, June 24.

Classes will meet daily through July 1 at UTM's Physical Education and Convocation Center olympic-size swimming pool. John Malatak, state director of safety services for the American Red Cross, will be the course director. Jim Seaton, regional commissioner of YMCA, will also serve as an instructor.

Seven hours of college credit is available for the course, which is open to anyone interested in underwater diving instruction.

The course fee of $500 includes room, board, certification and insurance. If the course is taken for college credit, the fee is $24 per quarter hour. A completed application and a $160 deposit must be received by Friday, June 10. The program is limited to 20 participants, so interested persons should register as soon as possible.

To register, or for additional information, contact Ross Elder, Department of Physical Education and Health, UTM, Martin, Tenn. 38238, telephone (901) 587-7318.

Zeta Phi Beta to present honors

The Sorors of Zeta Phi Beta Sorority, Inc., Delta Iota Chapter, will be presenting their First Annual Black Woman of the Year on Sunday, May 29 at 3:00 p.m. in rooms 201-203 of the University Center. There is no admission, and the public is invited to attend.

GED class to begin

UTM will offer a General Education Development Test (GED) preparation course beginning Monday, June 13.

The course provides an opportunity for individuals planning to take the GED Test to become familiar with the material on which they will be tested. Two sessions will be devoted to each of the five areas of testing, which are English, social studies, science, literature and mathematics.

Classes will meet on Mondays, from 6:30—9:30 p.m., through Aug. 22 in UTM's Andy Holt Humanities Building, Room 117. James Spears, associate professor of English, will be the instructor.

The course fee is $80, plus $9 for the textbook.

To register, or for additional information, contact the GED Testing Center, 109B Gooch Hall, 7087.

Children can learn about computers

UTM will sponsor a computer camp for children beginning Monday, June 27.

The camp is designed for students who will be entering grades 7 through 10, although younger students who have had prior computer experience may also be eligible. Classes will be divided into two groups, for beginner and advanced students.

Instruction will include an introduction to computer programming, featuring the Apple II microcomputer. The BASIC computer language will be taught, and applications for junior high and high school science and mathematics courses will be stressed.

Classes will meet daily from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. through Friday, July 1, in the Humanities Building, Rooms 211-213 and 215-217. Dr. Ortha Britton, associate professor of math and computer science, and Dr. James Clark, associate professor of math and computer science, will serve as camp instructors.

The $125 camp fee includes twenty hours of instruction, textbook and all materials used in the camp. The camp is limited to 22 students, so interested persons are urged to register as soon as possible.

To register, or for additional information, contact the Department of Public Service, Gooch Hall Room 109, 7082. The deadline for registration is Monday, June 20.

Chancellor Smith to present address

UTM Chancellor Dr. Charles E. Smith will present the annual "State of the Campus" address on Thursday, May 26, at 3:30 p.m. in UTM's Gooch Hall Auditorium.

Dr. Smith, who became UTM's chancellor in December of 1979, will speak to an audience of UT Martin students, faculty and staff members, and area residents. The annual spring event is sponsored by UT Martin's chapter of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP).

The event is free and open to the public.

SPORTS

1982-1983

A look at this year in sports

By LIZ COBLE

Sports Editor

and

Sports Information Coordinator

This year in sports has been great for the University of Tennessee at Martin. UTM was the GSC champ in four sports this year-from 1972 to 1982 the Pacers had only won one GSC title-Men's Tennis in 1982.

Gulf South Conference Championships were won by: the Men's Basketball team, the Rifle team, the Men's Tennis team and the Women's Tennis team.

Various players and coaches received recognition throughout the year.

This article will highlight major events of this year in UTM SPORTS.

Football
Overall 5-6
GSC 0-6

The Football Pacers finished the 1982 season with an overall record of 5-6, the Pacers' best record in three years, and a GSC record of 0-6.

UTM opened the season at home with a 14-6 victory over Fort Valley State.

The Pacers went on to win a thrilling 17-14 game over Austin Peay on the road. UTM survived three Austin Peay passes into the endzone at the end of the game to preserve the victory. It was the first of three Pacer victories over Ohio Valley Conference teams, a conference that is NCAA Division I-AA.

The Pacers lost the first game of the season to Livingston University, a team that was ranked second in the nation in Division II at the time of the game, 17-14. UTM bounced back from that first loss to post consecutive wins over OVC members Tennessee Tech, 35-21, and Murray State, 10-7. The Murray State game was the high point of the season as the players saluted the fans by coming back onto the field, Murray's field, at the game's conclusion.

In its next game, the Pacers lost to North Alabama, 33-10.

The Pacers then lost to Mississippi College, 16-9; Troy State, 54-10; Jacksonville State, 41-13, and Delta State, 47-0. UTM led Mississippi College 9-0 in the Pacers' homecoming game as Keith Kasnic kicked three field goals.

The UTM football team wrapped up the 1982 season with a decisive, 20-0, victory over Kentucky State University.

Five members of the team, Tony Champion, Keith Kasnic, Jerry Reese, Gary Ihnen, and Matt Klaren, were named to the second team All-Gulf South Conference football team selected by the conference's coaches.

Four football players from UTM, more than from any other school, were named to the Co SIDA District Three Academic All-America team in the college division. The four players are Chris Cain and Alan Welch of Humboldt; Brian Queen of Jackson, Miss., and Rick Delgado of Memphis.

Alan Welch and Chris Cain were also named to the Gulf South Conference All-Academic team.

Volleyball
Overall 28-22
GSC 4-6

The Lady Pacer Volleyball team finished the regular season with a 25-19 record.

Coach Lucia Jones said, after the season's finale, "You should be proud of this team of the Lady Pacers-our heads were high all season."

After regular season play, the Lady Pacers placed third in the GSC Women's Volleyball tournament behind North Alabama in first and Jacksonville State in second.

The Lady Pacers closed their season with a 28-22 record after the tournament.

An All-GSC team was chosen for overall play throughout the 1982 season and making the team for the Lady Pacers were Renee Douris and Kathy Dennis.

Men's Basketball
Overall 21-10
GSC 11-3
GSC Champion

The Pacers finished the season with an overall record of 21-10, posting the most victories in UTM basketball history. This year's team also compiled an 11-3 record in the GSC to win UTM's first GSC basketball championship.

The Pacers, under first-year Head Coach Tom Hancock, broke 17 and tied two school records among the 46 records for one game and one season listed in the school's press guide. For his efforts, Hancock was named GSC Coach-of-the-Year, the first time a UTM basketball coach has earned that honor. Jerry Davis, a 6-foot-7 junior center from Chicago, Ill., was named the conference's player of the year, a first for a Pacer basketball player.

The success is most amazing considering the fact that the Pacers were picked by the conference's coaches to finish seventh in the eight-team championship race. This year's Pacer team started out 0-2 in conference play before winning 11 of its last 12 conference games and posting a school record 10-game win streak. The Pacers compiled a 17-1 record at home and a 25-game Pacer win streak at home was stopped in the last home game of the season.

The Pacers' 21 wins in the regular season led to their selection as participants in the 32-team NCAA Division II national championship tournament. The Pacers drew a game against Southeast Missouri State University on the Indians home court in the opening round. The Indians, ranked fifth in the nation, had to go into overtime to beat the Pacers.

UTM's fine season was rewarded by the honors bestowed upon Hancock and Davis, and by having senior captain Gus Rudolph and junior guard Mitch Stentiford named to the all-conference team.

Women's Basketball
Overall 19-10
GSC 2-1

The Lady Pacer basketball team concluded the 1982-83 season with a 19-10 record, the school's first winning season and best record since the 1972-73 Lady Pacer team went 22-3.

Strusz, who came to UTM from Tampa (Fla.) University, improved the Lady Pacers from an 11-19 record the year before she came. The Lady Pacers were 12-14 last year, Strusz's first.

And, the future looks even brighter. The seven top scorers on this UTM team have eligibility remaining for the 1983-84 season.

Two seniors, Tina Wright of Milan and Paula Harris of Martin, completed their collegiate careers this year.

Three returners were named to the Lady Pacer Thanksgiving Classic All-Tournament team: Anita Hamilton, Sandra Lise and Gloria Clifton.

Angela Reeves, the team's second leading scorer and rebounder also returns as does Paula Pumbo and Deenie Ware.

The Lady Pacers were seeded first in a four team North Division for the GSC tournament.

"Some days I ask why anyone would want to coach. Then I see the Lady Pacers grow, mature and support each other with good sound play. I laugh with them, cry inside with them, get angry with them, but all in all I realize that I love them," said Lady Pacer Coach Strusz.

Men's Tennis
Overall 21-10
GSC 7-0
GSC Champion

During a second consecutive 20-match win season, a season that also saw the Pacers win a second consecutive Gulf South Conference championship, the men's tennis team finally experienced some recognition on a national scale.

The team was ranked 14th nationally in the Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association's (ITCA) mid-season poll, and two players, Larss Freimanis and Chris Brady were invited to compete in the 64-player singles field and in the 32-team doubles field of the NCAA Division II tournament. It was a long awaited national ranking and Brady and Freimanis were the first two players to represent UTM in a national tennis tournament.

Over the past two years, UTM has compiled a 45-16 dual match record and has been 14-0 against GSC opponents. The players scheduled to return for the 1983-84 season have a combined collegiate individual dual match record of 153-69.

Coach Dennis Bussard was named GSC Tennis Coach-of-the-Year. He was also Coach-of-the-Year last year.

Women's Tennis
Overall 20-7
GSC 5-0
GSC Champion

The Lady Pacers Tennis team came through the 1983 season with much success, and the Lady Pacer's success story may only be the beginning, though. Of the top seven players on this year's squad, four are freshmen, one is a sophomore and two are juniors.

UTM finished the spring with a 15-5 record in dual matches, including wins in 15 of its last 17 matches and at eight match win streak. Combined with a 5-2 record in the fall, the Lady Pacers earned their first 20-match win season ever, compiling an overall record of 20-7.

In the GSC Championship Tournament, UTM earned individual championships in all six singles flights and in all three doubles flights. The Lady Pacers defeated their GSC opponents in dual matches during the regular season by a combined score of 54-0.

Rifle
Overall 161-35
GSC Champion

The Rifle team won the GSC championship title this year and according to NRA competitions division, UTM's rifle team ranked 16th out of 175 NCAA teams nationwide during the 1982-1983 season.

This is the first time that a UTM rifle team has been nationally ranked in the NCAA.

Erik Kugler was the highest ranked individually. He was 34th in the nation.

The team's overall record was 161-35.

In the GSC tournament, Joella Ross was the individual champion.

She set a new conference record and made the All-GSC team.

Tom Koontz and Mark Minor also made the All-GSC team.

Captain Robert Beard was selected as GSC Coach-of-the-Year.

Golf
Overall 39-25

The Golf team finished the regular season with 11-10 record before competing in the GSC tournament.

In the GSC tournament, the Pacers placed fifth. Pat Nanney finished tenth overall with a .230 for UTM.

Nanney recently was invited to and competed in the NCAA Championships, where he tied for 23rd.

Including the fall season, the golf team compiled 39-25 record.

Baseball
Overall 20-18-1
GSC 1-6

The Baseball team finished the season with a 20-15-1 overall record.

In GSC play, the Pacers were 1-6. In games played at home, UTM's baseball team finished 16-5.

Gary Pitman led the Pacers in batting averages with a .380 followed by Johnny Dodd who had a .351 average for the season.

Russ Hopper had the lowest ERA for the Pacers with a 2.45. Kevin Tuck had the best pitching win-loss record with 6-1 for the year.

The Pacers played some games during the fall, but none of these games counted towards their final record.

The year 1982-1983 was a great year for UTM sports. The players, coaches, managers and trainers, students, faculty and administration, parents and local residents helped give UTM the athletic support that has long been awaiting this university.

Congratulations and a UTM thank you to all those who helped make this a great year for all the PACERS.

Because of all who have and all that will participate-UTM SPORTS will remain on top.

THE YEAR IN SPORTS 1982-1983.

Strusz resigns—Lawler new Head Coach

Anne Strusz, head women's basketball coach at UTM since September of 1981, has accepted the position of head women's basketball coach at the University of South Florida in Tampa. Strusz will remain at UTM through June.

Less than 24 hours after announcing the position vacant, UTM has named Karen Lawler, 32, as head coach of the Lady Pacer basketball team. "I'm really happy," Lawler commented. "I feel really good that Ms. Giles had confidence enough in me to offer me the position."

Strusz, who came to UTM from the University of Tampa (Fla.), had compiled a 31-24 record in her two years at UTM. She led this year's team to a 19-10 record, the school's first winning season and best record since the 1972-73 Lady Pacers went 22-3.

"I have mixed emotions about leaving," Strusz said. "I've had a real positive experience in Martin. The sincerity shown me by the administration, the community, and the players has been just fantastic. Everyone has shown tremendous support of the Lady Pacer program and that has enabled the program to build what I feel is a very solid foundation for the future."

"At the same time," Strusz continued, "this (coach of South Florida) is the one position I've had an eye on for several years. I wasn't seeking to move, but the position at South Florida came open and I just couldn't pass up the chance. I feel very lucky to be offered the position."

The year prior to her arrival at UTM, the Lady Pacers were 11-19. Under Strusz' guidance, they improved to 12-14 in 1981-82 before posting this year's 19-10 record.

Nanney 23rd in NCAA Tournament

With a final round 82 on Friday, May 20, UTM's Pat Nanney, a sophomore from Sharon, completed the NCAA Division II championship golf tournament with a 72-hole total of 313 on the Spiedel Golf Course at Ogleway State Park in Wheeling, W. Va., which left him in an eight-way tie for 23rd place overall.

The tournament enabled the top 88 Division II golfers, selected from a total field of 2,070 Division II golfers, to play head-to-head for the national championship. Nanney finished the first 18 holes of the tournament with a two-over par 73 that left him in third place.

After a second-day round of 77 left him at 150, Nanney was eighth. A third day total of 81, a round played in pouring rain that saw only six players break 80, put Nanney in ninth place at 231.

A fourth-day round of 82 left Nanney in an eight-way tie for 23rd place at 313.

It was the second year for Nanney, who played high school golf at Westview in Martin, to compete in the NCAA Division II tournament. Last year, as a freshman, he finished 49th in a 120-man field.

Intramural sports wraps up year

Campus Recreation hosted a gala of events this year. The Annual Freshman Studies Recreation Night festivities opened the door to leisure and fun for many new students. Returning and "rookie" students coupled with faculty and staff members displayed their interest throughout the quarter by participating in the all new Do It Weekends, the Power Lifting Competition and two Fall quarter sports. . . Intramural Touch Football and Intramural Tennis.

Many students, faculty/staff and townspeople attended the Winter quarter's top event. . . the annual All-Niter hosting Tom DeLuca, hypnotist. A record number of teams signed up for Intramural Basketball and a number of students attended the Spaghetti Supper hosting the Amazing Jonathan. Other Winter quarter events included Men's, Women's and Co-rec Intramural Racquetball Doubles Tournaments.

To round out the year, the Hank Williams Jr. Concert hit the hearts of many country music lovers.

Intramural Volleyball was inviting to some, while others preferred diving their way to victory in the Annual Sigma Splash/Intramural Swim Meet.

Intramural Softball housed a record number of 80 teams. We hope the Memorial Day Softball Tournament will be as successful. In other Intramural action was the men's teams signed up for the Tennis Doubles tournament. The last two events of the year included the Charlie Daniels Band in concert and Daytona Beach Day.

All these events contributed to a successful and fun packed year. A special thanks is extended to all who helped make this year a success.

Remember the Memorial Day Softball Tournament is open to the first 16 Men's teams and to an unlimited number of Women's teams. Interested team representatives MUST attend the sign-up meeting Thursday May 25, 8:00 P.M. in the P.E. Complex student lounge.

Thanks again. See ya next year!

Daytona Beach Day

Music, excitement, challenges and good old-time fun was what everyone enjoyed Tuesday at Daytona Beach Day. Activities ranged from playing games, riding carnival rides to just sitting and catching the rays. A big thanks to everyone who participated and made the day such a success.

The first-place winners of the air band contest are Jeff Crum, Stan Hardaway, Keith Weiss and Martin Renfro performing as Freddie Bell and the Ding Dongs (above). Receiving second place are Page Miller, Sally Scent, Tanya Hunt and Sloan Rateliff members of Mercedes Benz and the 450 SLs (left). Tim Howell and other members of GUS (Get U Some) are third place winners (right).
